ARRANGEMENTS ALL COMPLETE FOR FIREMEN'S DAY

The committee on arrangements for Firemen's Day, which takes place Thursday, Sept. 4th, have completed the arrangements. The merchants and citizens have contributed liberally and the success of the day, with favorable weather, is already assured. The committee have sought to perfect every arrangement and are now ready for the big event.

In the parade which will be in the forenoon, there will be three bands of music. Higgins Band of Haverhill, the Portsmouth City Band, and the Veteran Firemen's Drum Corps.

The parade will be formed on Court street and move over a route to be announced later. A chain lake will follow the parade and this will be served in the city yard.

The trial of Hand Tubs will follow, the Eureka being manned by the Veteran Firemen and the Mahawk chief by the regular firemen, and this promises to be some play out, as the regulars are hoping to put one over on the veterans.

The committee on invitations have issued invitations to all the ex-firemen and with a return attached, many have not replied to the invitation and the committee wish them to do so, for only those who do will be admitted to the lake. The former firemen are expected to either march or ride in the parade.

The committee on sports have arranged the following list of events, and for each event a suitable prize will be given.

A free lining base ball game will be played between the regulars and the veterans. Chief Engineer Woods will referee and Clerk Charles H. Keebe will be the clerk of course and all entries should be made to him.

KEEN VISION OF FUR EXPERTS.

Judge Potts by Subtle Sense of Color in Fixing Market Value—How Skins Are Prepared.

The chief requirement for success in grading fur skins is an accurate eye for color, or, more valuable yet, an intuitive sense of color. The difference in value of the same variety of fur skins, especially minks, natural black, silver and blue fox, and others, chin-chills, mink and some others, is so subtle that more than a practiced eye is necessary to judge accurately of the merits of individual skins. It is necessary that the color sense be highly developed.

The expert furrier must have, in addition to this, a thorough knowledge of the condition in which a skin should be to gain admittance into the highest class. A furrier must know by the appearance of the pelt whether it will turn out soft and strong after it has been dressed, and whether the fur is in the best of condition as regards strength and beauty.

A fur skin must, of course, be treated very carefully and by a different process from that followed by the tanner of hides. Though acid would ruin the pliability of a fur skin, wetness and disorder the hair. The furrier's process is designed to retain the natural oil of the pelt, which in turn preserves the color of the fur and keeps it soft and pliable. The first step in this process is accomplished by placing the skin in an alkali bath. After it has been softened in the bath the moisture is worked out of the skin with a blunt wooden instrument. Then the flesh side is drawn carefully back and forth over a straightedge knife, which removes any flesh that may be clinging to the pelt and also evens it off.

Specially prepared grease is rubbed into the skin for softening purposes, and the process is carried still further by placing the skin in a machine which is arranged to beat it softly until the grease has been entirely absorbed. A slowly revolving drum fitted with wooden paddles and containing fine hard sawdust, the kind of sawdust differing with the variety of fur, next takes charge of the pelt. A moderate degree of heat is supplied during this stage of the dressing. The skin is thoroughly cleaned of grease by this machine, and the dressing is completed by tapping the skin with smooth cones of a flexibility adapted to the strength of the fur on a leather cushion stuffed with horsehair. Often a skin will be changed in shape and made smaller by the dressing process.

Real and beaver skins require much more careful handling than other furs. In the case of these skins the water hairs, which are the hard top hairs of the pelt, have to be removed by hand. This process is more difficult with seal than with beaver. A number of men, each a specialist in his part of the work, are kept employed in the work. After this part of the dressing process has been completed the fine under wool, which is wavy and pale drab in color, is dyed dark brown. Several coats of this dark brown dye are applied, and the final result is a fur which is lustrous black on top. The skin is then submitted to a cleaning process again, made of an even thickness by emery wheels and finally finished off in pale buff color.

The English dye for sealskin, which is considered the best, is a trade secret. Its principal ingredients are gall nuts, copper dust, camphor and anti-mony. It is supposed that the water used for the dye in London has a great deal to do with the fine results obtained by the use of this dye. The pelts of different countries, using their own processes, obtain better results with some skins than with others, but the American furriers are rapidly coming to the front in handling the various kinds of pelts.—New York Sun.

HELL'S CARNIVAL OVER SLIT SKIRT

London Pastor Says the Devil Would Enjoy Walk on Broadway

New York, August 27.—"I am sure the devil is having a carnival in hell with the styles worn by the women in the streets of New York city today," declared the Rev. Dr. Leon G. Broughton, pastor of the Christ church Westminster, London, in his sermon at the Tremé Beangel, One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street, near Amsterdam avenue, "Certainly if I were the devil, I would not enjoy anything so much as a walk up Broadway or Fifth avenue looking at the slit skirts and other new styles of women's dress."

The very Dr. Broughton came to mention slit skirts and skirt the very night and quite transparent gowns now worn by many women was that the text for his sermon was, "Shall We Know Our Loved Ones in Heaven?" His sermon was that those who wear the slit skirts should not be recognized in heaven, because they would get there.

"Until very recently I never knew a woman who was not interested in jewels and clothes," he continued, "but now they have lost their interest in clothing and are going around the streets without any on. I don't know any place where the devil could be happier than in New York this summer, where the prevailing fashion for women is to wear as few clothes as possible and make those few as short and transparent as possible. These things lead only to the devil. They

At this point many women in the large audience applauded. But there are others who did not applaud and who might have frowned.

FOLSON FAMILY MEET AT EXETER

Over 100 Gather.—Mrs. Cleveland Sends Message from Sandwich, N. H.

Exeter, N. H., August 27.—Over one hundred descendants of John Folson, who settled at Hingham, Mass., in 1645, and came to Exeter in 1650 and here today, for the fifth annual reunion. The president of the Folson Family Association, Henry H. Folson of Somerville, Mass., delivered the address of welcome, and historical papers were read by Mrs. J. H. Gray of Somerville, Mrs. Frances K. Hills of Middlehead, Mass. The paper of the latter was on Major Nathaniel K. Folson, one of Exeter's earliest settlers.

The report of the genealogical committee was presented by Mrs. Elizabeth K. Folson of Exeter. For the after-dinner speaking, the toastmaster was Fred C. Folson of Braintree, Mass., and replies were made by Channing Folson of Newmarket, N. H., Brian B. Folson of Dover, N. H., Benjamin B. Folson of Glenade, Mass., and James B. Folson of Braintree, Mass.

Mrs. Fred C. Folson of Braintree sang many letters of regret were read, among the number, being one from Mrs. Frances Folson Cleveland, and her son Richard, who are spending the summer at Sandwich, N. H.

The oldest member of the family present was William Folson of Vero, Me., who is 91 years old, and among the number coming from afar were Mr. and Mrs. William T. Folson of Columbus, Miss., and the Rev. Miss G. Folson of Hightown, N. Y.

The family association is especially interested in the celebration at Hingham, Mass., by Herbert A. Folson of Somerville, in the celebration there in 1910, they have being the original home of the original John Folson.

Officers chosen were: President, Henry W. Folson, of Somerville, Mass.; vice presidents, Frederick C. Folson of Braintree, Marion Folson of West Acton, Mass., and Mrs. Blanche White of Winchester, Mass.; secretary, James B. Folson of Braintree, Mass.; treasurer, Willis H. Folson of Springvale, Me.; and chaplain, the Rev. John H. Short of Cambridge.

TO BE FIELD DAY AT PLAYGROUND TODAY

The plans for field day at the playground have been completed. They promise a busy time for every minute both morning and afternoon.

To facilitate matters the girls sports have been divided, part of which will be run off in the forenoon at 10 sharp and the remainder in the afternoon at 3. The boys will also give an exhibition of jumping in connection with the girls sports in the afternoon.

The children are asked to bring their lunches and check them at the office of the supervisor, Mrs. Ashworth will be in charge of the checking. All waste paper should be placed in receptacles placed about the park for that purpose. Those having waste paper will assist the management by observing this rule.

The dolls will have a special section reserved for them where they will be able to see all of the festivities. This department will be in charge of Miss Pattie.

Special guests of the day will include the G. A. R., the Honorable Woodbury Langdon, Supt. James N. Pringle and Father Edward P. Walsh.

During the latter part of the afternoon at the conclusion of the sports, the "Harvey" Loving Cup will be presented to the school having won the greatest number of points in competition athletics for girls during the summer. The cup will be presented by Supt. of Schools, James N. Pringle and it will be accepted for the Parochial school by Father Edward P. Walsh.

Program of the day:

The Record in Portsmouth is a Unique One

If the reader has a "bad back" or any kidney ills and is looking for an effective kidney medicine, better depend on the remedy endorsed by people you know. Doan's Kidney Pills have given great satisfaction in such cases. Portsmouth citizen testify to this. Here is a case of it:

Mrs. C. H. Michmore, 130 Dennett St., Portsmouth, N. H., says: "I do not believe I would be alive today had not Doan's Kidney Pills come to my attention when they did. I had Bright's disease and suffered for two or three years from soreness and stiffness in my kidneys. I often had such acute pains through my back that I was obliged to stay in bed. The doctors gave me all kinds of medicine, but I did not receive any real benefit until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Philbrick's Drug Store. I am glad to say that this preparation brought me prompt relief and eventually cured me. Several years have passed since then, but I still have a high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills. I have told many other people what this remedy did for me." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McIlburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

BIG ENTRY CLASS AT NEW HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE

New Hampshire College, Durham, Aug. 27.—One hundred and seven candidates for entrance to New Hampshire College have presented certificates so far. This indicates that the new class at the State College will equal, if not surpass, in numbers the phenomenal large class of last year.

The percentage of girl students has shown a marked increase. In the fall of 1912 there were thirteen girls in the freshman class. This fall there will be more than double that number and every room in the girls' dormitory has already been secured.

There will be several new members on the faculty of New Hampshire College this year, including Miss Helen B. Thompson, who is to direct the work in the new Department of Home Economics and be Dean of Women. Miss Thompson was formerly Professor of Home Economics at Lincoln College, Illinois, and at Rhode Island State College. The work in this course is filling a demand made by the people of the state, indicated by the fact that the freshmen entry certificates show there will be twice as many girls this year as in the year preceding. W. E. Stokes, of Madison, Wisconsin, will be in Durham this year to take the place of Professor App, who is to have a year's leave of absence to carry on postgraduate work in farm management at Cornell University. John J. Davies, of Cornell, will be here as instructor in physics. Miss Marion Tompkins, of Exeter, a graduate of Wellesley, will be assistant in botany. G. E. Butcher, of New Hampshire, will be the assistant in zoology. H. H. Scudder of Spokane, Washington, will be instructor in English and have charge of publicly work. R. V. Mitchell, of the University of Missouri, will take charge of the poultry courses, which are being offered at New Hampshire for the first time this year.

Durham, Aug. 27.—R. V. Mitchell, graduate of Missouri University, who has taken extensive work in all phases of poultry culture in Pennsylvania State College, and at Cornell, will this year have charge of the work in poultry at New Hampshire. These courses are offered this year for the first time as the result of an act of the legislature providing funds for poultry courses in the college and for the carrying on of extension work in various parts of the state under the direction of the State College.

The act appropriated $4,000 annually for the "Poultry Benefit Fund" and $900 of this money will be distributed by the college each year among poultry associations of the state, the apportionment being based on the entry fees received by such associations at their annual exhibition.

Professor E. H. Groves has returned to Durham after delivering a series of lectures with Professor Coker of the University of Michigan, at the College of the State of Washington, at Pullman, Washington. Professor Groves and Professor Coker had as their subject at the summer session of the school at Pullman "Problems of Rural Life." Professor Coker discussed the religious problems and Professor Groves the psychological, social and educational problems. The courses were attended by members of the student body of the Washington State College and many teachers from various parts of the northwest. Professor Groves also spoke at the Rural Life Conference at Pullman, Washington, on the subject of "The Rural Survey." This address is to be issued in a special bulletin by the State College of Washington.

GAVE HER RECEPTION

A large party of the friends of Miss Katherine B. McCooey well known in this city, formerly organist at St. Mary's church of Dover, gathered at her home, No. 5 Fayette street on Monday evening and gave her a farewell reception.

Miss McCooey is to be married on September 2. During the evening a lunch was served and a fine musical program was rendered. The party was brought to a close at a late hour all taking their departure with the best of wishes for the future happiness of the young lady.

WOULD END SUMMER SESSIONS OF CONGRESS

Washington, Aug. 27.—The tedious grind of a summer session of Congress in Washington heat has had its effect on the new members of the House, Representative Thompson of Illinois, a Progressive, indicated this by introducing a bill to prevent summer sessions. He proposes that Congress shall assemble once every year and that in the year of the long session it shall convene in October instead of December, thus preventing the extending of the session into the heated term. Congress, under the bill, would meet in December only in Congressional election years.

POST AT LEAVENSWORTH TO BE MUCH ENLARGED

Washington, Aug. 27.—The United States military post at Leavenworth, Kan., is to be enlarged and converted into one of the largest and most important posts in the United States, according to statements attributed to Lindley M. Garrison, Secretary of War, who with Major General Wood and other army officials, visited the post yesterday. Secretary Garrison in an address to officers of the army staff college is said to have praised highly the conduct of the Leavenworth post. Secretary Garrison and General Wood also visited the United States Military Prison, General Wood criticized adversely a number of conditions found there. He requested Secretary Garrison to abolish striped clothing for the prisoners and suggested that in many instances men who have served terms for minor offenses should be restored to duty in the army and not dismissed, as is the custom. Secretary Garrison took these points under advisement, and said if orders were issued in compliance with them, the rules would apply to all posts in the country. Garrison would change enlistments. Secretary Garrison said in an address before the Commercial Club of Leavenworth: "I am opposed to war and would do everything to discourage such a course. Only as a last recourse do I think it advisable." The secretary discussed the establishment of an army league, with only retired army men in control, to interest young Americans in the protection of their country and to be used as a training school to acquaint men with the army. He was sure, he said, that Congress would arrange terms of enlistment on an equal basis with the army. He was sure, he said, that Congress would arrange terms of enlistment on an equal basis with the army. A RAILROAD MYSTERY ton & Maine Railroad between Belmont and Tilton, by the crew of an express train early today. Three tramps who were asleep in the vicinity were arrested for drunkenness and an effort was made to learn the identity of the dead man. The position of the body was such that the police believe it would have been impossible for it to have been thrown there by a train. Railroad employees thought that the man might have fallen between the cars while riding on a freight train. The police were called to the scene vicinity last night on a report of a disturbance there, but found no one about. The three men who in custody were fined in court here yesterday for drunkenness.

CREWSOME FIND IN A SHARK

New York, Aug. 27.—The foot of a woman wearing a tan shoe and a knitted stocking was cut from the stomach of a giant man-eating shark by fishermen in the Atlantic Ocean off Spring Lake Beach, N. J., according to the fishermen themselves, and William I. Ohmer, manufacturer, of Dayton, O., who said he saw the foot and who has a summer home there.

The shark, which was described as being 18 feet in length and weighing 800 pounds, became entangled in the nets of the fishermen, and when they went out in small boats to make the daily haul Monday they found the shark whipping the nets about and tearing them.

Capt. Combs, in command of one of the fishing boats and one of the best known fishermen along the New Jersey coast, drew in one of the nets with five of his men. When they got the monster to the surface they gaffed him while it was trying to overturn their boat.

As he turned over on his back dead it was decided that he was too big to get into the boat to take ashore, so it was decided to cut him open and take ashore a full length section to prove his size.

Fishermen always cut open sharks to see what they have inside of them. The shark's belly was washed with the boat's gunwale when the knife was applied, and Capt. Combs and his five men were horrified to see the foot of a woman fall out of the stomach into the boat. They released the shark's carcass and took the foot ashore.

Mr. Ohmer was fishing near by in a pleasure boat and he said last night that he not only had seen the foot, but the shark from which it was cut. He said the foot had been bitten off a woman's leg between the knee and the ankle and that all of the stocking had come away with it.

"From the condition of the foot and the shoe it could not have been in the shark's stomach long; perhaps he swallowed it on Sunday," said Mr. Ohmer. "If the woman was dead when he swallowed her foot she could not have been dead long."

No reports were found of any woman who had lost a foot through an encounter with a shark. One of the puzzling things was that the foot was said to have a shoe on it, proving the woman was not a bather. She might have fallen overboard and then been attacked by the shark.

Plant Roadside Trees.

Somebody ought to start a society to line our New England highways with shade trees, says the Boston Herald. Miles and miles of roads in the more rural parts of the states to the north of us, where trees should be no rarity, are as bleak and unprotected as the desert itself, simply because no pains have been taken to provide shade. Where the woods have been cut away it would have been a simple matter to leave a line of trees standing, as the Massachusetts law now requires. But even this has been rarely done.

Trees along the highway are an unmixed blessing. They break the force of the winter's winds, and lessen the errors of the summer's sun. They do much to retain surface moisture, and so to keep down the dust. Our New England villages are noted for their rows of lofty elms. Would that this distinction could be made to apply to the long stretches of other highways. Particularly important is this in the era of the automobile, with the revived importance of the country road.

Should Prosecute Operators of Autos Who Do So While Under the Influence of Liquor.

It is about time that the law regarding the operation of automobiles in this state by any one under the influence of liquor should be enforced. There are cases well known to the authorities where cars have been wrecked and men and women injured by drunken drivers and nothing has been done. New Hampshire needs a few state police to enforce these laws.

The President's Attitude Endorsed.

President Wilson's message on the Mexican situation appears to be in accord with the sentiment of the people. He believes in letting the Mexicans skin their own skunks and fight it out. The American people do not believe in sacrificing the lives of Americans in a war. It is now in order for Americans to get out of Mexico and then let the "Mexicans go to it."

The Man Who Keeps Square.

The most useful, the most reliable and the most profitable of all domestic things are the cow and the hen, whose products are always saleable and always usable by the family. You show us a man who takes good care of a dairy or one who gives his poultry intelligent care, and we will show you a man who runs no store bill and keeps square with the world.

Cannot Make Walking Popular.

An exchange truthfully remarks that the men who are walking from ocean to ocean and doing other stunts are wasting their time. They cannot make walking popular again. The modern man will not walk. He wants to ride in an automobile, or fly—if he is going to make a change at all it will be to flying.

The People of Canada With Thaw.

This newspaper remarked a few days ago that New York sent Harry Thaw to Matteawan in order to defeat his going to Sing Sing. It also remarked that ninety per cent. of the people were glad that he had escaped, and now comes the report from Canada that the people there are with Thaw and want him set free. They regard him sane.

Has a Poor Memory.

It is wonderful how poor a memory a chronic borrower has. He can't remember when he borrowed a tool, from whom he borrowed it or when he promised to return it. He usually sells his friendship at a very low price.

VETERANS HONOR CY. SULLOWAY

Oil Portrait of Former Congressman Presented to the State

The Wets, Aug. 27.—Entertaining as a special guest, Gov. Samuel D. Feltner and paying a tribute to the high esteem in which former Congressman Cyrus A. Sulloway is held by them, the officers and members of the New Hampshire Veterans Association, observed Governor's Day today.

The arrival of Governor Feltner and his staff and council, was greeted by a salute of 17 guns, fired by a detail of the New Hampshire Battery of Manchester. The governor and party were received by W. S. Carter, acting president of the association, and the line of march was formed, headed by a platoon of police, Col. Nathaniel Blackford, veteran secretary of the association as marshal, Hubbell's band, New Hampshire Div. 8, of V. veterans of the association and invited special guests. Gen. J. N. Patterson of Concord had charge of the parade and was escorted by Capt. W. A. Hapley of Concord.

At 2 there was a grand campfire in the grove in charge, when W. S. Carter of Lebanon, acting president of the association, presented Governor Feltner, who brought the greetings of the citizens of New Hampshire to the commander and in the course of his remarks, said that at some time in the near future he hoped that steps would be taken towards placing of proper marks on the battlefields of the south where the gallant troops of New Hampshire won a lasting record in the history of the war.

The next speaker was former Gov. Henry B. Quincy of Lakeport, who paid a tribute to the men who fought in the ranks and former Senator Henry W. Blair who made a pleasing address.

H. L. Johnson of Washington then presented the oil portrait of Cyrus A. Sulloway to the state. Mr. Johnson said in part:

"The veterans of New Hampshire have a record and history for patriotic heroism that is an active influence in the maintenance of good government today, and an influence that will last for ages to come."

"Interwoven with the secondary history of their services in the activity of their true and tried friends who recognize their sacrifice and service, have contended that the country they served and need from disunion should be provided for them in their declining years that none should want for the comforts of life, and be permitted to pass their last days in their homes."

"Foremost among their New Hampshire friends and advocates was Cyrus A. Sulloway, whom we honor today. His was not a political blunder, but an interest that ended when the election votes were counted and results declared. His interest was sincere and enduring."

"He devoted his time of the strength of his manhood to legislation of interest to the nation's defense. Private pension bills of which there were many thousands, bearing his approval, were more of passage by the house. His general pension bill passed the house and failed to pass the senate, and did not become a law; but the seed was sown and the harvest was the Sherwood bill that the foes to pension legislation permitted to pass the senate and become a law. Years of persistent and consistent effort on the part of our friend created a sentiment throughout the country that has demanded that those who fought the battles for human liberty and the endurance of the union of states should not become a public charge."

"Veterans from all parts of the country appealed to him when in distress and were never turned away empty-handed. With a knowledge of his sincere efforts in our behalf, the few yet remaining express their appreciation of his labors by this testimonial."

"So today in our final public demonstration we place this likeness of our friend and voluntary advocate to the custody of the state. This action is not inspired by political sentiment. It is just what it purports to be, a voluntary tribute to one who loved his fellow men for their services and deeds to that great struggle for humanity."

"For his unfailing and undying devotion to those who were the nation's strong arm we may hope that before we meet again the name of Cyrus A. Sulloway shall be written on the roster of honorary membership of every Grand Army Post and kindred patriotic organization in the state of New Hampshire."

"The country that gives just recognition for the services of its military defenders commends itself to the dependents of that partisan activity, and offered their lives in support of that belief. The public men who insist that due and just recognition shall be measured to those who formed the human breastworks to protect and defend the great principles of humanity, commend themselves to the people."

"The governor of the state is present, and it is my privilege in the name of the veterans of New Hampshire to present to the state, through his official agency, this portrait of our friend. Let it have an honorable place in the capitol, that future generations may know that we appreciate his steadfast devotion to the men whose services preserve to them a united and prosperous country."

When Harry K. Thaw was caught in Canada he secured the services of several noted Canadian lawyers, with J. H. Greenblat as chief counsel. There was no assurance, however, that Thaw would not change his mind at any moment in regard to his lawyers, for he wanted it understood that he was directing their efforts to gain his freedom. A photograph of Mr. Greenblat is shown on the left. The other figure in the Thaw case here shown is J. C. Clark, minister of the interior, before whom Thaw planned to take his case in case the immigration board decided to deport him as an undesirable alien.

Governor Feltner accepted the portrait in behalf of the state. D. E. Proctor of Wilton then presented Mr. Sulloway with a gold watch and chain from the veterans.

Congressman Sulloway was then presented to the veterans and was given a royal reception. He thanked the veterans for the high honor they had bestowed upon him in the gift to the state, and in the personal gift.

Mr. Sulloway was followed by John McElroy, editor of the National Tribune of Washington and the closing speaker for the afternoon was George C. Hackett of Washington.

The portrait of Cyrus A. Sulloway represents him standing by a pine tree on the shore of the Merrimack, and on the bottom of the frame is the inscription, "Cyrus A. Sulloway, The Tall Pine of the Merrimack, in Congress 1895 to 1913. From the veterans soldiers of New Hampshire in grateful acknowledgment of his services in their behalf, August 1913." The portrait was painted by Frank French, of Manchester.

This evening under the direction of the campfire committee, S. S. Piper, of Manchester, J. N. Jones, Portsmouth, and L. S. Richardson, Concord, a campfire was held in the grove.

The comrades will have their own day Thursday, which will be observed as G. A. R. and W. R. C. day.

Governor Feltner's party, included members of his council, William R. Sawyer of Concord, Lewis N. Glendon of Manchester, Albert W. Nason of Peterborough and George W. McGregor of Littleton; members of his staff, Brig. Gen. Herbert E. Parthert, Major Chas. E. Tilton, and Quartermaster Sergt. J. P. Forsyth.

The campfire was attended this afternoon by a real live "red," Frederick G. Mills, of New Orleans, who saw service in the Civil war as a member of the famous Louisiana Tigers. Mr. Mills held informal receptions at headquarters today, meeting many veterans who fought against his regiment in the several campaigns.

TREASURER BREWSTER IS REMEMBERED

Given a Dinner and Surprise Presentation

Treasurer Charles W. Brewster of the Piscataqua Savings Bank who completes his duties there on Sept. 1 is taken up his new duties in Concord. He was given a surprise on Tuesday evening. He was invited to dinner by a party of friends, where he was presented with an elegant mahogany table. The evening was made pleasant throughout and Mr. Brewster was taken entirely by surprise.

REVIVAL OF THE GOVERNOR'S HORSE GUARDS

A movement is on foot to revive the old organization of the Governor's Horse Guards, which was organized at the time Governor Ichabod Goodwin was inaugurated in 1800 and its first service in escorting Governor Goodwin from his hotel in Concord to the State House. Hon. Frank Puller, the only remaining officer of the company, who is now visiting his former Portsmouth home, has been in correspondence with Franklin S. Frisbee, now of Cambridge, who is one of the few surviving members of the company, and the result has been the calling of a meeting at the Rockingham House on Saturday (this week) at 2.30 o'clock of all who feel interested in the reorganization of the Governor's Horse Guards, to which it is hoped all in Portsmouth who are interested in military affairs will come and take part in the enterprise. The people of Portsmouth were, really interested in the original company, but none of them are now living, except Mr. Puller, and to him has been assigned the duty of calling the meeting.

and stirring up the young men to take hold of the matter. The list of the members has the following Portsmouth names: Paymaster Frank W. Miller, Assistant Chaplain Charles Burroughs, Lieutenant Marcellus Eldredge, Lieutenant A. L. Bennett, Captain Clement March, Daniel Marry, William Sawyer, M. Holmes, N. F. Mathes, James A. Blaisdell, William Rand, Herman Eldredge, Jostan F. Eldredge, Joseph Curry, Henry Payser, Michael Fisher, G. V. Rowe, F. B. Holt, W. E. Hadley.

The meeting on Saturday is called by request of Mr. Frisbee, who will be present to conduct it, and present its subject. The matter will be a State affair and there will probably be present men from Concord, Manchester, and other places and it is hoped that the result of the meeting will be very satisfactory and will awaken an interest in the finest troop of mounted men which has ever been organized in the state.

CURRENT OPINION

HOW TO START A FORTUNE

"IF I HAD NEVER SAVED, I WOULD NEVER HAVE BEEN SUCCESSFUL."—Thomas F. Ryan.

The seed of every great fortune in America today was the saving habit. The present owners of these fortunes may not be saving, but those who founded them had to be.

Think of the millions of the Vanderbilts, Rockefellers, Carnegies, Astors, Ryans, and scores of other owners of enormous fortunes in this country. There is not one of them that did not start with old-fashioned thrift on the part of some one. They have been a century ago, or not any longer ago than the youth of the present possessors. No matter how much speculation and "big business" may have had to do with the later development of these fortunes, the start at least was made by saving.

But inasmuch as there is not one person in a million who can reasonably hope to acquire a mammoth fortune such as those mentioned, it is perhaps, more convincing to consider the origin of the more moderate-sized fortunes, examples of which are found in every community. Look around you and make a few inquiries concerning the reputed rich men of this vicinity. The chances are ten to one that you will find that these competences likewise had their origin in the systematic saving that provided funds for wise investment.

For the great mass of ambitious persons, the only course now open is that outlined in these words of Henry C. Huntington, the Los Angeles banker:

"Save a little every week, and when you get an increase of wages or salary continue to live within the former limits and save the increase. If you find it difficult to save, go in debt for a home or undertake some other obligation in the way of investment that will compel you to save. In these days, of course, the average man has better opportunities to win success in salaried positions than in individual enterprises. The big enterprises pay big salaries at the top, and close application will win promotion toward these bigger rewards. It is not necessary for a man to get a big salary before he begins to put money aside."

THIRD DAY OF CAMP MEETING

Interesting Services Held at Annual Session at Hedding.

Hedding, August 27—Today was "All Nations Day" at the campmeeting session, the program including the morning prayer meeting and Bible study hour at 9. The theme was "Significant Points in the Life of Jesus," the first subject being "The Three Decades" and the preacher Charles F. Sitterley of Drew Theological Seminary of Madison, N. J., Professor Sitterley will continue the talk tomorrow and Friday morning at the same hour.

At 10:30 a church institute and W. C. T. U. rally was held, an address being delivered by Madam Barkarat of Syria, and the children's hour and pentecostal service in charge of Mrs. Outman of Haverhill, Mass., and Rev. Felix Powell of Portland, Me.

In the afternoon the evangelists service included an address by Rev. C. M. Panunzio of Italy on "How I Became a Christian and Protestant." Rev. Rollin S. Tuttle of California conducted the young people's service, and at 6:45 another evangelistic service, Adjt. J. H. Abrams of Boston delivered an address on "From Judaism to Christianity."

The day was brought to a close by the after meeting service in the Grace church chapel, conducted by P. E. Call and Rev. C. C. Garland, both of Haverhill, Mass.

'THE WORLD CRIES OUT FOR PEACE'

President Wilson Read His Message on Mexican Situation--Americans Warned to Leave the Country Before They Cause Trouble.

Washington, Aug. 27.—President Wilson appeared in person before Congress today and laid bare to the world the details of this Nation's efforts to bring about peace in Mexico; the facts concerning Huerta's rejection of the peace proposals and the policy to be pursued now by this government.

The President announced the position of the United States to be as follows:

No armed intervention. Strict neutrality, forbidding the exportation of arms and munitions of war of any kind from the United States to any part of the Republic of Mexico.

Under no circumstances to "be the participants of either party to the conflict that now distresses Mexico," and to maintain the virtual empire between them.

To urge all Americans to leave Mexico at once, and to assist them to get away in every way possible.

To let every one in Mexico who assumes to exercise authority know that this Government "shall vigilantly watch the fortunes of those Americans who cannot get away, and shall hold those responsible for their suffering and losses to a definite reckoning."

"That can and will be made plain beyond the possibility of a misunderstanding," declared the President.

Negotiations for the friendly modification of the United States are open to resumption at any time upon the initiative of this Government or of Mexico.

Accompanying the President's message was the reply of the Huerta Government, rejecting the American proposals. It was written by Foreign Minister Gumbert. It suggested the following alternative policy for the United States:

Acceptance of a Mexican Ambassador in Washington.

That the United States send a new Ambassador to Mexico without reservation.

Strict observance of the neutrality laws and "see to it that no material or monetary assistance is given to the rebels."

Unconditional recognition of the Huerta government.

Opposition an Historic One.

The opposition had not been paralleled in more than a century. No other.

President since George Washington has appeared before Congress on a foreign affair. The Senate and House assembled in the House chamber, the Senators filing in two by two. As the President mounted the platform where Speaker Clark and Vice President Marshall were waiting the big chamber was hushed. Attributed in a conventional front seat to the President stood at the clerk's desk and read his address in the easy conversational tone for which he is noted. Scarcely a sound interrupted.

First pointing out that it was his duty "without reservation" to lay before Congress all the facts concerning the relations of the United States with Mexico, the President outlined what the United States had done "as a friend and neighbor."

Asserting that this Nation was glad to aid itself the friend of Mexico, and hoping for many future occasions to assist that disinterested, friendly, the President declared that "we shall yet prove to the Mexican people that we know how to serve them without first helping how we shall serve ourselves."

Describing Mexican conditions and the results that had up to the negotiations just concluded, President Wilson outlined how "war and disorder, devastation and confusion, seem to threaten to become the settled fortune of the distracted country." As friends he said, this country could wait as long as for a solution of things in this matter possible.

His Proposals in Mexico.

President Wilson read his instructions to John Lind.

"All American critics out for a settlement," read the note Mr. Lind bore to Mexico. "A satisfactory settlement seems to me to be conditioned on:

"An immediate cessation of fighting throughout Mexico, a definite armistice solemnly entered into and scrupulously observed.

"Security given for an early and free election in which all will agree to take part.

"The consent of Gen. Huerta to bind himself not to be a candidate for election as president of the republic at this election, and

"The agreement of all parties to abide by the results of the election and cooperate in the most loyal way in organizing and supporting the new administration."

The President emphatically praised the existence of the Huerta Government, and said he was glad to believe the American proposals "because the authorities at Mexico City had been grossly misinformed and misled regarding the spirit of the American people in the matter and upon a mistaken belief that the present administration did not speak for the people of the United States."

Concluding his address, the President predicted that the "steadying pressure of moral force will before many days break the barriers of pride and prejudice down, and we shall triumph as Mexico's friends sooner than we could triumph as her enemies."

Applause for the President.

Senator Gumbert's note, which was appended to the President's address as an exhibit, was not read by the President, but furnished to Congress as a printed document.

Mrs. Wilson and her daughters and Secretary Bryan had taken places in the executive gallery. Others members of the Cabinet were on the floor. Every head in the chamber had been bowed and the solemnity of the occasion was impressive as the House chaplain, Rev. Henry D. Cowden, in his opening prayer said:

"Rule Thou in the hearts of our rulers and sway the minds of these Thy servants, that as a Nation we may move forward to all that is pure and noble until all the peoples of all the world shall recognize the purity of our motives."

Although a deafening volley of applause rang out as the President appeared, he plunged into the reading of his message without delay, and with a bow of acknowledgment of the greeting.

The President finished reading in 12 minutes. Another great roar of applause broke out. All those in the galleries stood while the President left the chamber and started back to the White House.

The joint session at once dissolved, the House adjourned and the Senate filed back to its side of the Capitol.

THAW WINS HIS FIRST FIGHT AGAINST DEPORTATION

Sherbrooke, Aug. 27.—New York state was ruled out of court here today in a dramatic preliminary skirmish with lawyers for Harry K. Thaw the Multitawny fugitive fighting deportation. Superior Judge Globensky hearing arguments of Thaw's counsel, on a motion to discontinue a writ of habeas corpus, absolutely refused to entertain the objection of Hector Verrall, representing New York. This was received with a wild outburst of cheering by a thousand Canadian spectators. Thaw, rising, bowed in acknowledgment.

"Hooray for the British flag! Hooray for Harry Thaw!" shrieked men and women standing on chairs waving handkerchiefs, parasols and hats. Thaw bowed three times like a stage star taking a curtain call before a sympathetic audience. His cheeks were flushed, his big brown eyes shone but he maintained his composure. Men and women, struggling forward over chairs and benches to shake his hand swept aside court attendants and uniformed Dominion police and swarmed up to the judge's bench. But Thaw eluded them and slipped into an anteroom used as press headquarters. Ten minutes later he was on his way back to the Sherbrooke jail. A great crowd on the courthouse steps cheered again as he descended. Arguments in the matter of discontinuing the habeas corpus writ were put over till three o'clock this afternoon, there being some doubt in the court's mind as to whether counsel for Thaw proposed to proceed under the civil or criminal code.

THAW WINS HIS FIRST FIGHT AGAINST DEPORTATION

New York's objections to having the writ of habeas corpus vacated are due to the fact that such action might mean Thaw's indefinite detention in jail and the blocking of deportation.

Mr. Verrall, after stating that New York wished to oppose the move, introduced Samuel Jacobs, chief counsel for the New York interests. He explained that technically he represented the man who made the arrest, who might be liable to damages should Thaw's detention be proved unwarranted. His lordship said:

"I would consider a protest of this kind out of place, in that it was an ex parte proceeding. He pointed out, moreover, that it was unusual for a party who had been instrumental in placing a man in jail to seek his release. Here the crowd burst forth into cheers and the adjournment came.

"When the New Yorkers and their Canadian lawyers got back their breath—for they were fairly swept off their feet—they gathered in their hotel. Mr. Jerome called reporters aside and very carefully and very slowly dictated this statement:

Jerome Dictates Statement.

"We, who represent here the state of New York, are entirely unwilling to comment on the scene that occurred in one of his majesty's courts today. The relations between the bar of the United States and the courts of the Dominion of Canada are most friendly and cordial and we realize keenly the sense of humiliation experienced by our brethren in Canada, who are assisting us.

The twenty-sixth annual reunion of the Locke family was held on Wednesday at the town hall in Rye, and there was an exceptional large attendance.

At the business meeting requests were received from the late Hiram C. Locke of a painting of his father, Hiram Locke, his daughter Nellie and his photograph three generations of his family, and also a copy of the works of John Locke the poet published in London, 1802.

Dinner was served at noon and the usual elaborate repast was prepared by the committee in charge.

The following were the officers elected:

Pres. Prof. Charles E. Locke, Boston Teak, Mass.

Vice Pres. Mr. Frank L. Locke, Boston, Mass.

Judge James W. Locke, Jacksonville Fla., Mr. William Yeaton, Concord, N. H., Mr. John A. Long, Boston, Mr. Alonzo A. Locke, Waltham, Mass., Mr. Augustus W. Locke, Hampton, Mr. Albert C. Locke, Rye.

COUNTERFEIT $10 BANK NOTES

The counterfeit $10 national bank notes have made their appearance and the secret service force of the government is hot on the trail of the men who are thus seeking to increase the volume of paper currency.

One bill is credited to the First National Bank of Chicago and the other purports to have been issued by the Farmers and Merchants' National Bank of Los Angeles. The treasury department in a statement issued says:

"The figures in the bank and treasury numbers are poorly formed and out of alignment. The latter work is very good. The back of the bills is a darker shade of green than the genuine. The paper feels thick and harsh."

The bills the secret service officials say are formed of two leaves of paper, between which silk threads are distributed. The officials add that "if better printed, these bills would be very deceptive."

Me for economy, with my roll;
With four years starting me in the face.

Naturally, I have to cut my pace.

But come and see me, shipmates, all,
See if my resolutions fail.

And we will have another time,
Just as sure as those words rhyme.

nades, built at Bath, Me., smashed another record for the 1000 ton class today. In her builder's trial four hours endurance test run she averaged 30.52 knots per hour.

The best record for this class that for speed was formerly held by the class at 30.13. Today's trial was made in a heavy sea and with other conditions adverse.

The Gunnades also made a four hour endurance run at 21 knots, meet-
